THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL TOOL

Read Act 2:42-47.

The Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved. (Acts 2:47.)

The Early Church was a praying Church. One hundred and twenty men and women met in the upper room. They waited for the coming of the Holy Spirit, which Christ had promised. While they waited, they prayed. Power beyond their grasp was being poured upon them like a rushing wind. Then the Church was born.

The Early Church was a witnessing church. The disciples ceased not to teach and preach Christ.

The Early Church was sharing church. They sold their possessions and gave to every man according to his need.

The Early Church was a praising church. The disciples continued daily in the temple praising God.

The Early Church was a giving church. They sold their possessions and gave to every man according to his need.

The Early Church was a giving church. They sold their possessions and gave to every man according to his need.

Dear Father, we thank Thee for those valiant disciples in the Early Church who blazed the way for us. Help us to realize that in the Church today we must never grow weary in praying, witnessing, sharing, praising, if we would be worthy of our great heritage. In Christ's name. Amen.

Today I will pray, witness, share, and praise.

Scientists Attend World Meeting

The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., where the Annual Meeting of the denomination was held on Monday, June 3. The domed edifice is the Extension dedicated in 1906. Adjoining it, with a steeple, is the Original Edifice, dedicated in 1889. The Christian Science Church was founded by Mary Baker Eddy, who discovered Christian Science in 1826 and published the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" in 1875.

Gratitude for the healing power of the Christ, Truth

Christian Scientists from many parts of the world met today for the Annual Meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

Humanity is gaining freedom from the bondage of sickness, sin, and limitation through growth in spiritual understanding. The Christian Science Board of Directors declared in a special statement.

World conflicts and upheavals are caused by resistance to the Christ, Truth, the Directors told the gathering. They said that the "light of the Christ is today dispelling the darkness of materialism and selfishness."

Commenting on the phenomenal progress mankind has made in breaking the barriers of limitation in all fields of thought and endeavor, the Directors expressed their confidence that universal harmony depends upon the individual expression of spiritual love and selflessness which includes overcoming the "petty irritations and frustrations of daily living."

The retiring President, Mr. Woodward, pointed out the importance of working for peace based not upon force but upon righteousness and justice.

"Since Christian Scientists have received countless blessings through the power of prayer, we have a special responsibility to pray earnestly and persistently for the peace of the world," he declared.

Reports of the progress of the world-wide activities of the denomination, which has more than 3,200 branches, were made by key officials.

Hungarian refugees and Korean orphans as well as the needy in Kentucky and Oklahoma flood and tornado areas were among those receiving assistance from the Relief Fund of The Mother Church, it was announced.

New branches added during the year include those in Beverly Hills, New South Wales, Australia.

U. S. Aid For Depressed Areas Could Hurt Florida

Administration proposals for federal aid to the so-called depressed areas would hurt Florida by giving other states an unfair advantage in the competition for new industry, Harold Cole, executive vice president of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, said today.

"Florida," Cole declared, "is a state that would be eligible to share in such a program."

Pointing out that Florida needs at least 18,000 new jobs every year to maintain its share in the anticipated expansion of the national economy, Cole said "We can't hope to attract new industry and jobs fast enough if we have to compete against federal subsidies to other states lagging behind in the industrialization race."

Therefore, we have called on our delegation in the congress to oppose the program."

Benjamin's 'Lil' At Bodegar's Store

DREDGEMEN'S RETURN

A while back I was telling you all about how Hubie Boree and I rode the east train to Clewiston when the land was all knee deep in water, but I guess I never did get around to telling you how we got back to the dredgeboat again. It was right funny.

Hubie and I met in West Palm Beach but instead of going to Canal Point where there were passenger boats running to Moore Haven, Hubie insisted that we should go to Belle Glade where we would have to hire a boat for the trip. It was a dumb idea, but he had a girl friend there and I guess he figured she wanted to see him right badly, so to Belle Glade we went. After Hubie had got his affairs in order in Belle Glade it was after dinner time and it had started to cloud up and blow. The whole northwestern sky was black as a bank robber's heart. We hunted up Claire Greer and two or three others who had boats, but they all took one look at that black cloud and allowed that they were just too busy.

So that left nobody but Captain Benjamin. He agreed to take us in his "Lil" for $25.00 which was a heap of money, but maybe worth it since he had a cabin boat. It was calm in the canal but when we got clear of Torrey Island we did not feel so badly about that $25.00, for the old lake was really kicking up. Before we had got half way to Ritta Island it began to get dark and our engine started to miss.

It would hit a lick and miss two, then pretty soon it would miss three and, and Captain Benjamin would have to get down on his prayer bones, all the while uttering appropriate remarks, and wrestle that flywheel until she would start up again. Of course the trouble was caused by water and trash in the tank that he had been too lazy to drain out before he started.

Now, with the "Lil" trying to roll her windows under, most of this trash was getting into the carburetor. We kind of suspected that the captain was getting annoyed, so after half a dozen of these sputtering stops we were not surprised when he dropped the hook overboard. We were then in the edge of the grass off from where Bean City now is, and although the boat was pitching considerably it was not so rough here. After doling out an unappetizing cold snack, the skipper prepared to clear off the accumulated rubbish from one of the lockers, dug out a couple of dirty blankets and asked us if we were ready to turn in.

Hubie motioned me outside. "Do you think you can sleep in that cabin?" he inquired. "Well," I told him, "since I have been boating I have slept on piles of lumber, sacks of potatoes and on the bare deck with my head against the engine, but for tonight I was planning to sleep out here in the wind."

"That cabin smells like a boar's den," Hubie declared, "I'm be good and dog-gone if I am going to sleep in such a place!" Accordingly we moved our blankets to the cabin top and hoped we would not get rolled off into the drink.

When it got light we waked the skipper. He drooped around and grumbled and cursed, draining the gas tank and priming and cranking and finally got the old leaper to popping again. We upped anchor and did pretty well until we got beyond the shelter of Ritta Island, when the engine started acting up again. After it had quit a few more times it looked as if Captain Benjamin was about to lose his patience some more. When we were beyond Clewiston he turned her nose dead toward shore and ran her bow right up to the levee.

"This is as far as I am going, boys!" he declared, and all our begging did no good. We were supposed to be at work at it that morning and that morning and Captain Hamp Holloway knew just how to be unpleasant if a fellow was late. Captain Benjamin refunded us five dollars and backed off, leaving us to walk the ten miles to Moore Haven.

With all the country under water, of course there was no place to walk except on top of the dike. This particular section of it had been thrown up the previous year and it supported a prodigious growth of weeds, most of them with tall, woody stems that morning and evening were dead. Nevertheless, they were there. And the top of the dike had been levelled so it was not as smooth as Dixie Highway.

We also noticed that it was a wild life refuge, principally for crocodiles. After we had started, stumbled and jumped along for a few miles nad could see the big barn of Benbow's off in the distance and were getting close to Liberty Point, we noticed that there was a road which approached the levee. When still opposite that morning and evening were dead. Nevertheless, they were there. And the top of the dike had been levelled so it was not as smooth as Dixie Highway.

So on we noticed that the railroad track, in turn, was nearing the road and seemed to be no more than a quarter of a mile away. We had about reached its nearest approach, when, to our surprise, we heard the distant whistle of a locomotive. "Come on, Hubie!" I shouted, "Let's flag it down!" Off I splashed through the water without a thought now of keeping dry, which as it turned out, was just as well. Now Hubie was kind of a short stemmed fellow and wasn't making such good time, but was well legged and was really making knots, when all of a sudden, without any warning, I stepped right off into nothing.

But he floated away like a gas engine. It was the section foreman's motor car, and bless his soul, he was going in the right direction. The sun had come out by this time but that wind was pretty keen. I peeled off all my clothes, wrung them out and spread them on the rails. So there I was, running up and down that road track in my birthday suit, trying to get dry in the wind and warm in the sun at the same time. Deciding that wet clothes would beat no clothes, I wriggled into them again, and Hubie and I decided to find out how many cross ties there were between Liberty Point and Moore Haven. We were getting along all right, too, when he heard the pop-pop of a gas engine. It was the section foreman's motor car, and bless his soul, he was going in the right direction.

We stood between the rails and dared him not to stop. He was very nice. He picked us up, after a fast and breezy ride delivered us in town. Then all we had to do was to hike out to the dredge, change into overalls, catch our little bit of hell from Cap for being late, and go to work.

But I guess I never will get over that dirty laugh of Hubie's when my brand new Stetson floated off in that ditch.

"Home Is Best Place For A Country Boy"

Clarence Bailey has returned to the Glades from a few months safari into the wilds of the multi-million-dollar real-estate sales of the east coast.

Clarence reports that while the "game" is ponderous and elusive, it's hard to get a "shot" without wounding other hunters.

"The 29% boys have bought enough of the ten to twenty-dollar per acre sand sloughs at five to nine hundred dollars per acre to furnish homesites for the half million folks we're expected to have in this county by '85."

"Dairy men are using the 'Yankes' 29% payments to move to another sandhill where dream milking barns are erected on land that swallows fertilizer and insures a continuing feast for the boys who sell dairy feeds in bags."

"Yes, the muck, by comparison looks good to me. I can sell a man muckland at the going price and sleep at night for I know he can justify the purchase price by the production of the land - in footcudts."

"Yep, muck is the best place for a country boy, and I'm back to stay, wiser and a better real-estate man."

It tells you we went all out to make this car completely new—yet we didn't sacrifice a single Buick virtue.

So you still get that unmistakable Buick styling.

You still get that big-car room and comfort and that solid Buick quality.

But you also get so complete a change in the vitals of this car that the driving of it is a wondrous new experience.

You get a brilliant brand of performance that's different from anything else that goes on four wheels.

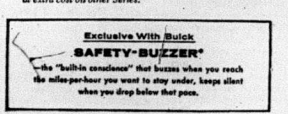

Words won't describe it. Telling you there's an all-new engine, an instant new Dynaflow,* a completely new power train—none of that will convey this news to you.

What you have to do is get in this car and drive it. Drive it around the block, through town, out on the highway. Actually feel what happens when you press the gas pedal, turn the steering wheel, touch those powerful new brakes.

Then—and not till then—will you know why folks call this "the dream car to drive."

The best advice we can give you, by far, is this: Ask your dealer for a trial run today.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special. Safety-Buzzer is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Chevy's come up with the newest, sweetest, smoothest automatic drive—Turboglide. It's the first and only triple-turbine transmission!

Turboglide is something really new and different in automatic drives. In the first place, there's only one forward-speed position on the control panel. There's no "Low" needed.

Turboglide handles everything with the oil-smooth action of triple turbines. You travel from a standstill to top cruising speeds with never a lurch or lag to mar your motion.

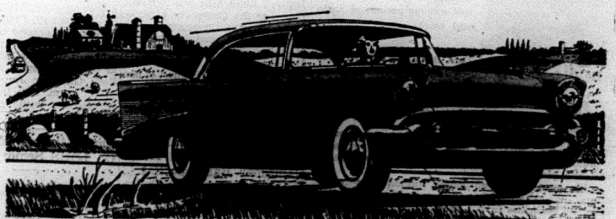

When you see a steep downhill stretch ahead, you set the selector at "Cr" (Grade retarder) and Turboglide helps slow you down. Try Chevy's new, nothing-like-it automatic drive. It's optional at extra cost—and worth it.

Benefits Possible For WWII Veteran's Widows

The widow of a World War II or Korean conflict veteran may be eligible for a GI loan if the veteran's death was service-connected and he had not already obtained a GI loan.

The statement was issued today by L. McClelland, Glades Service Officer of the Veterans Administration Office in Belle Glade.

However, he added, if the widow herself is an eligible veteran, she accrues no additional GI loan rights because of her husband's death.

Widows of World War II or Korea veterans whose death was service-connected, also may obtain direct loans from VA in those areas eligible for direct loans.

Direct loans, McClelland said, are obtainable for the purpose of a home or farmhouse. The law prohibits direct business loans.

GI loan applications from widows, based on their husbands' deaths as a result of World War II service, must be made by July 25, 1958. For Korean conflict eligibility, loans must be made before February 1, 1956, McClelland said.

Complete information is available from the VA Office, Sanders Building, Belle Glade.

Construction Shows Drop In Belle Glade For May

A decrease in construction was noted in the monthly inspection report submitted by W. L. Cunningham, city building inspector, for May.

Twenty-five permits were issued for a valuation of $23,710 and less of $130.85.

Totals for the first five months of this year are $411,870.50 which was a decrease over the same period of 1956 of $114,746.50.

Total valuation for April was $81,678. Through April of this year the valuation for 1957 lagged $766.50 behind 1956.

Increase Seen In Heart Disease Death Rates Now

Deaths from heart disease are going up, especially for the men of the white race. So states the monthly statistical report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Florida State Board of Health.

Some solace can be of course be found in the fact that the ever-increasing control of deaths from the greater killers like tuberculosis and pneumonia, more men and women—of both races are living into the later years when heart disease might be expected to take its toll. And, too, Florida has recently been the Mecca of the elderly. Their deaths are recorded here, though their lives have been spent elsewhere.

And even with those facts considered, Florida stands well below the national average in heart disease deaths.

Last year the Florida death rate from all forms of heart disease was closely estimated at 229.1 per hundred thousand population, while the national rate was 359.9. Florida rates increased 18.9 per cent since 1950, while the nation was going up 48 per cent. Heart disease deaths were considerably more prevalent among white than non-white. The comparative rates were 343.1 as against 283.5.

The final figures are not yet compiled, but it is expected that they will show the white male as considerably more susceptible to heart disease mortality than the female. The 1955 figure for the ladies dropped a little below that for 1950, to 222.7 from 229.3. But the men moved up from 1950's 292.6 to 412.2 in 1955. There is every reason to believe, according to the bureau, that the trend will show the white male as heart disease's greatest victim in 1956.

A Famous Trademark Returns

"The Bryant pup, a famous advertising figure in the roaring 20's, is returning. 'Our customers never forgot the little Boston terrier,' says H. L. Clary, Bryant vice president and sales manager, 'so we are bringing him back in a national contest in June.' Mr. Clary is shown here with an armload of the more than 3,000 Bryant pups that will be going out to dealer showrooms. Keeping tally is pretty Bryant employee Zorita DeJarnette. Since youngsters can't resist an urge to see if the pups are real—they are made of unbreakable rubber latex. Purpose of the contest is to 'Name The Bryant Pup'. Grand prize will be a golden Cadillac, commemorating Bryant's Golden Anniversary Year. There will also be 165 golden Bryant furnaces and water heaters for regional prize winners. The total jackpot of prizes is $50,000.

Get your entry blanks for the big contest at your local Bryant dealer, Glades Gas Company, 7 W. Avenue A.

Insecticide-Fungicide Industry In Florida Valued At $15 Million

Insecticides and fungicides produced in Florida and used as aids to plant and animal production in the state are valued at approximately $15 million annually.

This industry, which also covers common household insecticides, has tripled during the past ten years. The recent expansion of the manufacture of insecticides and fungicides is a direct result of research in agricultural improvement and control, and is of prime importance in the success of the big truck, citrus and cattle industries, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce stated yesterday.

This week's business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division shows approximately 20 plants in Florida manufacturing insecticides and fungicides as their principal activity. These plants have some 300 employees and payrolls of about $1.5 million annually.

Products covered include copper, nickel and lead arsenates; various combinations best applied as dusts; DDT, pyrethrum and related organic insecticides; and fungicides from copper, sulphur and mercury.

Wage Injunction Sought Against Contractor On Flood Control Project

Reynolds and Smith, Inc., a Florida contractor, has been named defendant in a civil suit filed by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell in U. S. Court here.

Seeking to permanently restrain the firm from violations of the over-time-pay provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act (Wage and Hour Law), the complaint alleges that defendant's workers, engaged in construction of Levees 18 and 25 on the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Project, have not received their regular one-half their regular rates in hours in excess of 40 in a work week.

These employees are "engaged in commerce and in production of goods for commerce," according to the complaint. The Flood Control Project, which is a "comprehensive plan" including an extension of the Caloosahatchee River and Lake Okeechobee drainage areas, will prevent or substantially diminish flooding of public highways, railroads, and airports regularly by used in interstate transportation.

Girl Scouts Close Year's Activities With Awards And Special Ceremonies

All of the Girl Scout and Brownie Troops have brought to an end activities for the year. Mrs. Victor Mullberg, leader of Troop 132 met Monday with the group for their final meeting of the year and presented attendance stars to the members of the fifth grade intermediates. Wednesday evening members of Brownie Troop 192 and their parents were guests and were entertained in the municipal Park with a winner rosette by leader, Mrs. Elmer Scurluck assisted by Mrs. Harold Zump and Mrs. Louis Motes, assistant leaders. The program was opened with a flag ceremony which was followed by songs and dancing. The leader introduced the troop assistant leaders, committee chairman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen council vice president and neighborhood chairman, respectively. Parents were presented with a gift the girls had made for them and gifts from the girls and their parents were presented to Mrs. Scurluck, Mrs. Zump, Mrs. Motes and Mrs. Ray in appreciation of their work.

Members of Brownie Troop 133 held their final meet Wednesday and received attendance pins from leader, Mrs. James Wierenga. They voted to use the money from their treasury to pay postage on magazines they are sending to Cuba as a service project. At the preceding weeks meeting a program of dancing, singing and skits were enjoyed, followed by a nature walk through the park. Refreshments were served by the girls parents.

Brownie Troop No. 132 held their flyup ceremony in Jameson Hall. The ceremony was marked by the lighting of three large candles for the three parts of the Girl Scout Promise and ten smaller candles each representing a girl scout law. Each scout lighting the candle recited the part of the promise or the law represented. Then first gazing into the Brownie "Pool" and giving a reason why she had joined the Brownies, each little girl stepped up to her assistant leader, Mrs. Lee Berryhill and was presented her wings and then repeated the girl scout promise to her leader, Mrs. Richard Hodges and received her Girl Scout pin. A yellow and green color theme was carried out in decoration for the occasion with the Brownie pool encircled with green fern and yellow hibiscus, and a large green wall hanging, shown in picture, embroidered red with yellow trefloids and with the girl scout promise, motto and slogan used as a background for the ceremony.

After the presentation of wings and pins, the girls sang "When'er you make a Promise" and then closed with Michael Berryhill playing taps. The leaders then presented the girls with autograph books and the leaders received gifts from each girl and their parents.

On Thursday evening the leaders were assisted by Mrs. Charlie McWhorter in entertaining the girls at her home with a winner rosette preceded by a swim dance.

Mrs. Emil Wolf, Mrs. Ray Wilkinson, Mrs. Douglas Robinson and Mrs. Arthur Zump leaders presented the sixth grade intermediates Girl Scouts of Troop 133 with awards. Your Library

"A library may be regarded as the solemn chamber in which a man may take counsel with all who have been wise and great and good and glorious among the men that have gone before him." — G. Dawson.

Books on our library shelves this week among the best sellers are Proof of the Pudding by Phyllis Finneran. An authority on children's books insists that children do read — and tells what they like, with hundreds of specific recommendations for the different age groups. An invaluable guide for parents, teachers and others who deal with children.

Stepper Tokyo is a brilliant novel of suspense by John P. Margard. He created one of the most original characters in the literature of intrigue, the celebrated Mr. Moto of Japan. Readers will not soon forget the dramatic climax which brings this exciting novel to a finish.

Don't Go Near the Water by Williams Brinkley. Have you read it? This is the funniest book since "No Time For Sergeants", which takes a knowing look at the activities of a group of navy public relations men on a Pacific Island during World War II. A national favorite — Wagghis, salty and entertaining.

The Proving Flight by David Besty, is about a plane, the Emperor, a gleaming new jet on her proving flight non-stop from London to New York. The passengers of conflicting personalities battle each other and then are forced to a larger battle of man's ingenuity with his machines against storm and ice and fog.

National Safety Council Advises Against High Speeds After Dark

If you drive 60 miles an hour at night, chances are you're over-driving your headlights. That's the advice of Edward L. Smith, secretary of the National Safety Council's Committee on Speed.

Smith, a traffic engineer, pointed out that the Uniform Vehicle Code recommends that an auto's bright lights be capable of illuminating on object 350 feet away.

But at 60 miles an hour, a passenger car's stopping distance is 366 feet.

"I'm sure that cars with properly adjusted sealed-beam units meet the requirements of being able to spot an object 350 feet away," Smith said. "And most modern-day cars have sealed-beam headlights. But they are not always adjusted, the lenses or windshield may be dirty."

"A car's lower beam won't meet the requirements. With the low beam, you seldom can see more than 100 feet ahead, especially when the glare of an oncoming car's lights hits you."

Improper lights are probably a definite factor in one of every 100 fatal accidents, Smith said. Statistics indicate that, nationally, chances of a motor-vehicle fatality at night are three times as great as during the day.

Motorists — whose ability to see at night may be lessened by strong daylight — were warned by the Council not to rely on "blind faith" in driving at night.
